The Report That He is to Be Made a Cardinal

AND RECALLED FROM WASHINGTON

Dr. Rooker Discredits Some Recent Statements.

THE PAPAL CUSTOM

Children's Shoes. What was represented to be an interview subject of Mgr. Satolli's elevation to a cardinalate and recall to Rome was pubished this morning, as follows:

Cardinal Gibbons, in discussing the elevation of Mgr. Satolli to a cardinalate, aserted that the papal delegate would be recalled to Rome. "It is the usual action in such a case," he added, "and Mgr. Satolli will probably be recalled within a short time." "What relation will he then bear to the church in America?"

"He will be papal delegate, as now." "Will it make no change, then, in his au-thority or his relations to the church in America?"

"None whatever."
"Is not allowing him to stay in America after he has been elevated to the cardinalate an unusual dignity?"
"Oh, he will be allowed to remain but a short time, and then will be recalled to

"He will certainly be recalled, then?"
"Yes, he will be recalled."

Discredited by Dr. Rooker. "I cannot believe that Cardinal Gibbons talked any such nonsense as that," said Dr. Rooker, the secretary to the papal delegate, when a Star reporter handed him the purported interview. He perused it care-fully over again, and then said, with added fully over again, and then said, with added emphasis: "Oh, no! The cardinal certainly could not have said that. If he was interviewed the person doing it must have misunderstood him and gotten it mixed up. "It is perfectly plain," continued Dr. Rooker, "that if Monsignor Satolli is created a cardinal and recalled to Rome he will no longer be the papal delegate to the American church. So far as this legation is concerned, no intimation whatever has been received here of the intention to create Monsignor Satolli a cardinal. If the create Monsignor Satolli a cardinal. If the pope cherishes any such idea we certainly have not been made acquainted with it.

How Cardinals Are Made. "It is not usual for the pope to make known his intentions regarding the creation of cardinals," said Dr. Rooker, fursomething like this: The pope calls a consistory in Rome. He can call such a consistory any time he feels so inclined. There is no rule governing their meeting time, but for many years it was the custom to hold four consistories a year. The present pope, however, has not followed this custom. On one occasion since his accession there was an interval of fourteen months between them. The less consistory was there was an interval of fourteen months between them. The last consistory was held last March, but no cardinals were created. The one before that was in June of 1894. The pope, as I have said, is not in the habit of prematurely announcing those whom he has determined to honor so highly. When he calls a consistory, which first meets privately, he sends letters to those whom he has determined to make cardinals three or four days before the consistory meets.

"The recipients' names are then announced in the private consistory. Two or three days later the public consistory is held, and if any of those whom he has created cardinals can get to Rome in time they Therefore a special messenger would be sent to this country with the berretta, the little red cap worn by cardinals. CHINESE LANTERN EFFECTS.

-Best quality TAPESTRIES- 80C. Suggestions for the Adornment of a Lawn on Fete Occasions. From the Boston Transcript.

At every summer resort where the people are ambitious to be up to date, the entertainment committee provides for an event to be known as a carnival, fete, or illumination, with the Chinese lantern as a predominant feature of the celebration. The use of this pretty oriental toy has become very extensive, and its glow and color are welcomed on summer evenings as the most fitting elements of all outdoor festivities, because they are brilliant and gay without being glaring or noisy.

In the arrangements of lantern effects it is well to avoid straight lines, whether horizontal or perpendicular, and if the best results are to be obtained regularity in space.

izontal or perpendicular, and if the best results are to be obtained, regularity in spacing the lights should also be guarded egainst. The attempt to follow the exterior lines of houses, or of verandas and balconies, is seldom worth while. An occasional imitation of the form of a round arch is found to be effective, especially ever a gate; but in these cases the lights should not be too closely crowded together, and the colors should not be uniform. The trees and bushes afford the best opportuand the colors should not be uniform. The trees and bushes afford the best opportu-nities for picturesque grouping of lanterns, and the lines of the branches should often be noted as suggesting the most favorable and picturesque shape for the group of lamps. Cedars and apple trees are particularly well adapted by their whimsical forms and movement of lines for this purpose. It is an error to mass too many lanterns together, and sometimes a crooked, slanting line of four lamps on a tree or shrub will be found much more satisfactory than quently neglected until it falls out sult with us about it if your hair ing line of four lamps on a tree or shrub will be found much more satisfactory than twice that number. If an artistic and thoroughly "Japanesey" effect is almed at, let the disposition of the lanterns have an espect of absolutely extemperaneous grouping, devoid of formality. As an aesthetic authority has remarked: "Things should not be arranged; they should occur."

It is sometimed; they should occur." shows the least signs of decay. We not be arranged; they should occur."

It is sometimes permissible to string rows of lanterns on fences, hedges, wires, or ropes, but in most instances where this is done it will be observed that the very multiplicity of the lights detracts from the picturesqueness of the effect, and if the attempt is carried to too great excess, it becomes tiresome and suggestive of the beer garden or the cafe chantant. The repetition of lines is undesirable, as are geometrical patterns of all sorts. The best line is a broken or irregular curve, which is susceptible of endless variation. In every possible instance the background should be shrubbery, foliage, vines, water or the ery possible instance the background should be shrubbery, foliage, vines, water or the sky. A long list of "don'ts" might be made. For example, don't follow the outline of a sable, a piazza, or a summer house; don't make straight rows; don't crowd the lanterns; don't try to outshine your neighbor; and don't set your cottage.

or your evergreens on fire. On the other hand, the field is wide for the invention of original and charming effects, which can be got by a little experimenting. Postpened.

THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

Another International Wedding and a Washington Bride.

The First Days of Autumn and Their Brides and Grooms-

Personals.

This morning's mail brought to many of the acquair tances of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wilson a pleasing surprise in their announcement of the marriage yesterday of their daughter, Eleanor Salome, to Mr. N. J. Knagenhjelm, secretary of the legation of Sweden and Norway. The event took place at the summer residence of the bride's family, and was a quiet affair. Miss Wilson is a charming young lady and highly accomplished. Her beauty is of the Spanish type, and she has been much admired and always a belle since her debut in society a few years ago. Mr. Knagenhielm is the secretary of the Swedish legation and a favorite in the diplomatic set, and a general favorite in society. He has been general favorite in society. He has been here about three years. When the first news of the engagement of the couple was announced it was promptly denied by the friends of the young lady, so that now the news of her marriage is a genuine surprise, the more so that even the most intimate acquaintances who remained in town all summer had no hint that any preparations were being made for such an event. It is understood that the couple will shortly return here to reside.

The tulle veil was fastened with orange blossoms, and she carried a bunch of bride roses. After the cremony a reception was held. After supper the young couple left for a trip, the first destination of which they did not reveal. They will go to housekeeping not reveal. Rev. Wm. C. H. Luebkert to Leave Trinity Lutheran Church.

Washington will lose one of her oldest pastors of the Lutheran denomination by the resignation of the Rev. William C. H. Luebkert of Trinity German Lutheran Church, which was tendered to the congregation of that church at a meeting of he officers last evening. Dr. Luebkert felt that a change in the pastorate would result in benefit to the church and the ultimate increase in the congregation, and so he sent in his resignation to be acted upon Tuesday evening. Several votes were taken and the resignation finally accepted with expressions of regret.

Rev. Mr. Luebkert was born in Luchstadt, Schleswig-Holstein, and soon after coming to this country entered the ministry, in which he has served thirty-three years, nineteen of which have been spent as the pastor of Trinity Church. Before coming to Washington he had charges successively at Butler, Pa., Loudonville, Orio, and Monroe, Michigan. He will not, however, close his career in the ministry just now, but will remain in Washington until called to some other church. Trinity Church is located at the corner of 4th and E streets northwest, and is possessed of considerable church property, owning and conducting a parochial school adjoining the main edifice on the north and also a parsonage on H street northwest. During the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Luebkert the church building has been enlarged and otherwise improved, and the parsonage tought. It is understood that for the present the pastor will conduct the services of the church, and in the meantime overtures will be made looking to the stadt, Schleswig-Holstein, and soon after ent the pastor will conduct the services of the church, and in the meantime overtures will be made looking to the selection of another minister, though no name has been selected as yet.

My home is wrapped in gloom;
Why should I not be broken-hearted,
When tears of sorrow reach the tomb?" Loved in life, in death remembered.
